Edit the following sentences according to the style used in the book to correct any errors in the way numbers are presented. If all numbers in a sentence are already correctly expressed, write correct. Answers to even-numbered items can be found at the back of the book.

EXAMPLE
Before James Cameron began work on Avatar, his mother dreamed about a blue-skinned twelve woman 12 feet tall.

2. James Cameron, the writer and director, estimates that sixty percent of the film consists of computer-generated elements.

3. The theatrical release runs for 162 minutes.

4. Nominated for 9 Oscars, the film won 3.

5. A linguist created a language of about 1,000 words for the Na’vi characters to speak. Cameron added 30 more words.

6. Back in 1994, Cameron prepared an 80-page plan for the movie, but he had to wait for film technology to catch up with his vision.

7. Four-fifths of professional critics gave Avatar a positive review.

8. The average rating by a critic was 7.4 out of 10.

9. On the seventh of January 2010, the New York Times political columnist David Brooks turned film critic for a day and called Avatar’s “white Messiah fable” offensive.

10. In response, three hundred readers left comments on his newspaper’s website.

Name: _______________________________  Class/section: _______________________________